6. [redacted] Called Homer Krout, in the office of Representative Joel Broyhill (R., Va.), and told him there was a possibility we might be able to reemploy [redacted] about whom the Congressman had written us and with his indulgence said we would delay our response to their letter a few days in the hope this would be the case. Krout said he would note their file to this effect.

8. [redacted] During a couple of phone conversations regarding tomorrow's briefing of the House Appropriations Intelligence Special Group, Ralph Preston confirmed that the briefings would be held in H-140 of the Capitol with the morning session running from about 10:00 to 12:00 devoted to community budget and the afternoon session devoted to the Agency budget.

Preston said he knew of no specific questions the Director would get, but we should know in general the Chairman is pondering the problem of how he can get "his arms around" the budget problems of the intelligence community as a whole.
